Wood Heater policy to go on exhibition for 42 days

QPRC carried a Motion on Wednesday evening, "That Council endorse the Draft Solid Fuel Heater Policy and place on public exhibition for a period of 42 days."

The Draft Solid Fuel Heater Policy has been prepared to restrict the installation of solid fuel heaters in specific parts of the Local Government Area. The policy aims to improve air quality and protect public health by reducing exposure to wood smoke, a known contributor to respiratory problems and premature death.

The draft policy only applies to new heaters in the restricted area. It does not relate to existing heaters which have been installed with Council approval. It requires designers of new developments to adopt cleaner and more sustainable heating solutions.

The draft policy has been developed to provide guidance on where a solid fuel heater can be installed.

The report reads: "Council's Environment and Compliance branch is focussed on minimising harm to health, welfare, safety, property, and the environment. The draft policy has been developed in response to evidence highlighting the adverse health impacts of indoor solid fuel heating. NSW Health advises that smoke from wood-burning heaters can cause serious health issues, including heart and lung diseases, and can aggravate asthma and pre-existing heart conditions. It is understood that residential wood heating is a major source of hazardous air pollution, contributing to premature deaths and healthcare costs.

The number of complaints received is increasing every year.

The draft policy will be applicable for all new building applications and development proposals for new development areas in the following areas: · Bungendore. Jumping Creek, Googong Township and all future greenfield developments in Queanbeyan-Palerang Local Government Area

Whereby, approval will not be granted for installation of a solid fuel heater in these areas.

The policy does not impact existing heaters that have been approved and/or installed. Council will continue to undertake seasonal education programs to assist owners of wood heaters to use them safely and effectively.

QPRC Update

Replacement of Honeysuckle Creek Bridge

Contractors have started work on the replacement of Honeysuckle Creek Bridge on Majors Creek Road. The road will be closed at the bridge. Monga Lane has received some upgrades including a grade and gravel re-sheet to serve as the detour during the works and will have a reduced speed limit of 60km/h due to the expected increase in traffic. Drivers travelling between Majors Creek and Braidwood will need to use Araluen Road and Monga Lane. The bridge is expected to be closed for around six weeks, weather permitting. This project is funded by the Australian Government with a contribution from Council. Find out more at www.qprc.nsw.gov.au/Major-Works-Projects/Honeysuckle-Bridge

BCS students shine again in Public Speaking

By John Longhurst

Braidwood Central School (BCS) students have once again impressed at public speaking.

Year 8 student, Hayley Holzhauser and Year 10 student, Layla Stuart participated in the NSW Arts Unit Junior Secondary Speaking Award Local Finals at Illawarra Sports High School last week.

The Junior Secondary Speaking Award aims to encourage the use of clear and effective spoken English.

The competition began in 1995 as the Legacy Junior Public Speaking Award, and since then has provided an opportunity for NSW junior secondary students to improve their confidence and to develop their speech-writing and public speaking skills.*

The Junior Secondary Speaking Award is open to NSW government and non-government secondary schools. Past winners of the competition have gone on to become prominent politicians and award winning journalists.

At the competition students present both a 5 minute prepared speech on any topic and a 2 minute impromptu speech on a subject chosen by the adjudicator.

For Hayley Holzhauser it was her first attempt at public speaking at this level and she performed very confidently on her chosen topic 'World Pollution'.

Her direct approach to public speaking impressed the audience.

Hayley said "I enjoyed the experience and have gained in confidence. I am looking forward to representing BCS at future competitions."

Layla Stuart is almost a 'veteran' public speaker at BCS and used past experiences to advance to the regional finals. Her prepared speech 'Staying Alive' discussed the subjects of wealth and immortality. All students had to deliver the impromptu speech was on 'Going Head First'. Layla used the topic to explore government intervention into gambling.

Layla said "I enjoyed listening to the opinions and topics of many other people my age and am looking forward to the regional finals."

BCS Principal congratulated both students.

Ms Mosely said "For a small regional school BCS has a proud record in public speaking competitions and we punch well above our weight. Hayley and Layla continue this tradition and we all wish Layla well at the regional finals which will be held at the Arts Unit in Lewisham in weeks 7 and 8 of Term 3."

BCS promises an evening on a Greek Island

Rehearsals for 2024 BCS production on 21/22 September

By John Longhurst

Braidwood Central School (BCS) are promising locals a trip to a Greek island or at least an early summer for two nights in late September with sunscreen is not required when its much-anticipated musical will be performed at BCS on the 21st and 22nd September.

Due to legal restrictions BCS can only advertise the title of the musical on the school site which explains the 'incognito' mode of posters around town.

Whilst the name of the musical is well known, it is perhaps Braidwood's worst kept secret and up to 60 BCS students have been building sets, sorting costumes and rehearsing all year.

BCS Drama Teacher and Director of this year's musical, Mrs Elisa James summed up the enthusiasm of students and staff.

Mrs James said "It's musical time again at BCS. The rehearsals are revving up. The community will spy our posters around town. The last BCS musical was in 2018 and it has been exciting to see students treading the steps of the school stage again. We all feel so privileged to work with such amazing young people. Their energy and vibrancy is contagious and whilst producing this show we are making memories that we will treasure forever. We have the privilege of seeing a young person's first song in front of an audience, see them stepping into their confidence, finding the character in their bodies and then transition into utter joy when the audience gifts them applause. We want to share this beauty with the Braidwood community."

Rehearsals have now reached the business end of preparations.

Mrs James said "We will spend the coming weeks of this term running the show. We will extend into technical rehearsals, to learn all cues for lighting and sound and practise performing 'mic'd up'. We will complete costume runs and work on transitions between the dressing room and the stage. The students are amping up, they feel the sweet pressure point, they know the audience is coming and they're rising to the occasion. They 'Know the start... Know the end... Masters of the scene'. So we are putting the call out, tickets are on sale and we need an audience to share this wonderful production with."

BCS Principal, Ms Nerida Mosely is extending a warm invitation to the community to come join the fun and share in the enthusiasm.

Ms Mosely said "Ticket sales open this week and can be secured by ringing 4842 2249. Allow us to provide you with a memorable evening bursting with our talented students."

Braidwood Preschool Committee Annual Trivia Night Fundraiser

Winning team was "Beer Pressure" took home the gold medal with 99 points.

Rarely Rongs Best Decorated Table

On Saturday 3rd August, 2024 the Braidwood Preschool Committee held our Annual Trivia Night. This year, we moved to a new location at the National Theatre which allowed more of our community to participate. With the support of the Braidwood Lions Club, we operated a bar which assisted in our fundraising.

What an amazing night we had! 139 locals formed 17 tables to compete for the top prize as the Trivia Night winners, taking home carefully crafted preschooler-made medals and a bottle of wine each. The winning team was "Beer Pressure" taking home the gold medal with 99 points. Congratulations! In second place on 96 points, "Floating & Swimming Upstream" and for the first time ever, a three-way tie with "The Battles of the English Civil Wars in Chronological Order", "AJ Jacobs" and "Don't Panic, Disco!" all coming in on 93 points.

This year's trivia featured a Sports round focused on Olympic fun facts, Gastronomies of the World where we tested foodie knowledge and a round of Braidwood History. Safe to say, everyone walked away having learnt more about our town's fascinating background.

We were privileged to have several of our Preschool Educators in attendance. Donning a VIP lanyard permitting priority bar access, the Committee and other attendees thanked our Educators for all they do to raise the youngest in our community. It was wonderful to see staff outside of the Preschool enjoying a team bonding evening and testing their cartoon and picture book knowledge!

Our Committee is grateful to the support of Jamie Reynolds of the Royal Hotel for assisting the Lions Club and all Lions men who volunteered their time serving at the bar. We could not have operated at the Theatre without your backing. The Lions also helped in delivering the alcohol to the Theatre. Gavin from Hold Fast Distillery generously donated kegs of spirits which were thoroughly enjoyed on the evening.

Hamish Hudson returned for another year to generously MC the night. Hamish set a jovial atmosphere and kept the Trivia rolling, providing words of encouragement to the Committee and cracking jokes through the night. On Sunday morning, Hamish even helped the Committee clean the Theatre. A more supportive MC we could not ask for. Thank you, Hamish!

Nick Harton again took to the stage as our enduring Preschool Auctioneer to run our biggest auction to date. A fierce bidding battle was entered into for the incredible auction items on offer.

Accommodation, hair & beauty packs, fitness & wellbeing vouchers, jewellery, artwork and more brought in substantial funds to support our Preschool. Thank you, Nick, for your continued support of our Preschool.

National Theatre Committee Member, Richard Allan, was an asset to have on board ensuring all our Audio-Visual needs were met. Richard set up our presentation and kindly stayed until stumps to support us throughout the evening. Thank you to Richard for your technical support and humour from the side of stage.

Braidwood Community Bank sponsored the "Wheel of Fortune" and Guess the weight and value of coins games. After each round, the wheel was spun and Bendigo Bank vouchers were won. Tom Watson took out both guessing competitions, correctly guessing the weight of the coins and being surprised by the value of 1c & 2c coins. Thank you to Nick Fry and the Braidwood Community Bank for your continued dedication to our community. Nick's creativity of providing the coin game was appreciated and added a fresh element of fun to the 2024 Trivia Night.

Braidwood Preschool Committee Annual Trivia Night Fundraiser

Our raffle was a huge success with over 150 prizes on offer. Almost every attendee walked away with an incredible prize to put the icing on the cake of a fantastic night. Thank you to St Bede's Primary for the loan of the raffle barrel.

Our engineering skills were under examination as the Paper Plane Competition line grew and snaked through the Theatre. Some planes soared, some nose dived, all received a round of applause. The Heads & Tails coin toss saw an unprecedented amount of 'heads' and a dubious crowd as heads won out time and again! Hold Fast Distillery donated a bottle of gin and vodka for the coin roll. Coins competitively were slid, rolled and spun across the timber floor to see who would hit the bottle and take home a local brew. Thank you, Gavin, for your incredible support of our event. Gavin also sponsored our Photo Competition with the winner taking home a bottle of gin.

Participating in one of our Preschool children's favourite activities of 'dress ups' and reminding us why we were all gathered, our attendees enthusiastically sported coloured wigs, glasses and vests in our rainbow corner. Congratulations to team "Swimming and Floating Upstream" for your creative efforts. We loved the Olympic themed decor on your table and in your costumes!

Our Best Decorated Table prize went to "Rarely Rongs" who created personalised gold medals, Olympic sports bibs and with the Olympic rings front and centre on their table and carrying the Olympic torch throughout the Theatre. What dedication!

Last but not least, we're grateful for the dedication of the 2024 Preschool Committee. Many members who were unable to attend on the night, assisted in the set up process and members playing Trivia were key in filtering answer sheets through to the scoreboard.

This year, we trialled an electronic scoreboard which eased the tallying process. Particular thanks goes to Lydia Abendschein, Kate Morris, Angela Backhouse and Rachel Farley who each dedicated nearly 12 hours on the day to the set up and operation of the Trivia Night. We're also grateful to the Shepherd and Baumann family for all their support and muscles.

With close to 140 attendees, it's safe to say this was our biggest Trivia Night yet. We're thrilled to announce our community's generosity has resulted in an incredible amount raised! The 2024 Annual Preschool Trivia Night raised $13, 550! We are over the moon with this result. Our heartfelt thanks to each and every attendee for parting with your hard earned money and to all the Braidwood (and beyond) businesses who donated prizes. Without their support, we wouldn't have the successes of the raffle and auction!

A Beer with Bazz #161

With John
Longhurst

Bazza wended his way through a packed front bar with patrons swapping Olympic Games expertise quicker than stockbrokers making trades on the floor in a bull market.

One group focused on the athletics and technical language punctuated the conversation with 'bell laps', 'false starts', 'splits', 'staggered starts' and 'throwing circles'. One patron's clumsy reenactment, with self commentary, of Matthew Denny's discus throw to claim a bronze medal, left Bazza smiling.

Gathered beneath endless replays of the Olympic swimming finals on the television, another group paid homage to 'dolphin kicks', 'drag suits', 'gravity waves', negative splits', 'latex suits' and 'warm down pools'.

Other patrons had watery eyes as they experienced a Cathy Freeman Moment (CFM) on replays of Jessica Fox not only winning two gold medals in the kayak but also jumping in the water to celebrate her younger sister, Neomie's win in the Women's Slalom KX-1.

Bazza finally reached the bar table and winced as he straightened his back and sighed.

Raised eyebrows all round as Bazza screwed his eyes.

"Sorry I am a little late. I am in a fair bit of pain. I was lying on the couch watching the swimming, got up to go to the fridge and somehow injured my back and neck."

Rubbing of chins and follow up questions to Bazza before Know All Ron, cleared his throat.

"Ahh Bazza... As Ian Thorpe said, 'the majority of you has to be on your back'* when you get up off the couch. It is what cost the Canadian swimmer third place in the 200 metre individual medley and delivered our very own Kaylee McKeown a bronze medal on disqualification. It explains your crook back."

The odd 'maybe' before Young Simon stepped forward.

"No... I think Bazza needs to follow the USA gymnast, Simone Biles and the manner in which she dismounts the beam. It's all about preparation and practice over a long period of time. You need to stretch and prepare your body in a similar way before dismounting the couch. You cannot just get up and go to the fridge, at whim, without a technique. You do not have to complete the routine to music but it is important to perfect the landing from the couch."

Mick leaned in and asked a few more technical questions before clicking his tongue.

"I really do not think the injury has been caused by the dismount of the couch. The problem is the movement from couch to fridge. Firstly, you need to work on a strategy to get to the fridge in the quickest possible manner... something you are more than capable of achieving. Think about your start and steps involved. However, I believe your problem is linked to your eagerness to open the fridge door and the stress it has put on your back. A more fluid motion using your core muscles will prevent further injury, Bazza."

Bazza took a long sip.

"Crikey, Mick...you have it covered."

Mick grinned.

"Bazza... I can get from the couch to the fridge and back in 7.03 seconds in a routine that would be judged a 10 if such an event was included at the Olympics."

Author, Journalist and Screenwriter Robert Macklin as a regular contributor to the Bugle. THE GADFLY PAPERS, are a delightful collection of columns he has been writing since 2012.

Gadfly

Gadfly maths

Grandchildren are amazing, they do such clever things. For example, they grow older at the speed of light. Or so it seems.

Our four are scattered over Sydney and Canberra, and we mostly interact with the two Canberra girls, Aria and Allegra, 14 and 13 respectively. Both are quite beautiful and though they have very different personalities each rejoices in a delightful sense of humour. Aria was beautiful from the moment of birth; Allegra took a while (five minutes in grandchild time) to graduate from cute to stunning and is already taller than her tall sister.

Both are very bright but unlike Allegra, Aria was uncomfortable at her Steiner School and didn't really flower academically until she joined her old primary school friends at Melrose High. That's where she shot to the top of the maths class and to the general astonishment of even her doting grandparents, scored 100 percent in a tough test. She actually beat the perennial winner, the Singapore Chinese-Australian boy who only managed a paltry 98!

Amazing. Not least because the genes she inherited from our side were pretty much innumerate. However, in recent months I have stumbled across a question that has kept me awake at nights. I'm sharing it with her, but all readers are welcome to join the hunt for an answer.

Here 'tis: Is mathematics a human invention or a discovery of something that was always there? Aria's first response was, 'a discovery', but after a while she seemed much less certain. For example, prime numbers – those that can only be divided by one and themselves – reveal no discernible pattern.

On the other hand, my instinctive response was 'an invention' but if so, how come it's so useful in all branches of science (except, perhaps, quantum mechanics).

Google is not much help. It simply ranges over the possibilities without reaching any conclusion. And some scientists duck the question by saying it's both. I guess that works – more or less – if you see it as a function of our evolving consciousness; the patterns we divine in our surroundings become increasingly complex until we can only express them through the 'language' of mathematics.

But then in one of those coincidences that become increasingly common as you grow older, I happened upon a New Scientist that asked the same question in a different form in their brain teasing back pages: 'Did abstract mathematics such as Pythagoras's theorem exist before the big bang?'

That elicited lots of answers, most of which said there were two schools of thought – the religious believers said, 'yes' and the others 'no'. There was even one that said there's no such thing as 'before' the big bang.

Another said, 'There are those mathematicians who believe mathematics is invented, for whom the answer is 'no' because there was nobody to write it down, and those who believe it is discovered the answer is 'yes'. because we can prove a solution exists.

I was attracted to the contribution from one Simon McLeish from Gloucestershire who raised the possibility that 'pure mathematics doesn't really exist at all – never has and never will – mathematics is about abstract objects that ignore reality. For example, a line without width couldn't exist in the real world, but that is a property of a line in geometry. The numbers that are used to measure the sides of a right-angled triangle have a mathematical precision far finer than could be obtained from a real-life triangle.

'Perfection is the soul of mathematical thinking,' Simon said, 'but it never existed in the real world.'

But of course, neither did the 'soul'.

FUTURE FARMER

Growing tucker where they told him he couldn't, since the turn of the century

Grow your own Potatoes

Potatoes are one of my favourite vegetables. Mash 'em, bake 'em, fry them, Potatoes are versatile in the kitchen, and relatively easy to grow. I am very fond of their flavours and textures, and they are my preferred delivery of complex carbohydrates. I only mention this because my Potato Draw has been talking to me, and maybe yours has too. The stragglers want to get out, they want you to grow your own Potatoes.

Soil Temp

Plant them now and your Potatoes will sit in the earth until the temperatures are correct for them to sprout. Soil temp of around 10C is the start for most Potatoes. This is a good garden indicator if you don't have a soil thermometer. Volunteers from past crops lay waiting in the garden, popping their leaves through the mulch when the conditions are right.

Varieties

Potatoes, like tomatoes, come in two types;

Determinate (Kipfler, Pink Fir) provide early to mid season crops of smaller potatoes. They do this by producing a single layer of potatoes around the original seed Potato. Good for small spaces and can do well in pots.

Indeterminate (Dutch Cream, Sebago, Nicola etc). grow for longer and can produce Potatoes up the length of the main stem. To take advantage of this, indeterminate Potatoes benefit from mounding with earth or mulch as they grow. Late season crops of large Potatoes.

Companions

Potatoes are reputed to grow well next to Bush Beans, Celery, Coriander, Corn, Marigold, Nasturtiums, Garlic and Onions. They don't like to be planted next to Asparagus, Carrots, Cucumbers, Melons or Sunflowers. I generally plant potatoes in their own space because harvesting is so disruptive. Also, I find a Potato bed is rarely cleared of all the little spuds, so volunteers pop up everywhere.

Seed Potatoes

Potatoes for planting are easier to come by than you might think. I started growing from what I had in the kitchen. It is around this time of year that my Potato Draw gets it's grow on, pleading to be planted out. All the energy stored last summer, is now fuelling the growth of roots and more tubers, because the temperature is ready for growth.

Every year I 'save' some small-medium sized Potatoes for seed, not the big ones. The medium ones get consumed most readily and store the best. The big ones are something to be proud of and can provide a full meal when baked and filled with accoutrements. Eat the big ones first and plant what didn't get eaten.

In Ground

I love planting potatoes in my regular garden beds because the endless volunteers are welcome. I always seem to have potatoes somewhere. What I don't like is harvesting inground potatoes. Inground requires digging, and digging can create damage to the precious haul and the soil. Because of this I tend to 'store' my potatoes in the ground and harvest only when I need them.

Planting into the earth takes digging effort and the layer of growing potatoes will also be in the earth, requiring more digging to remove the bounty, so I plant on top. The harder it is to dig to plant, the harder it will be to harvest. So, from now on I plant directly on top of the earth.

On Ground

I plant one whole seed potato on top of the ground, in a 30cm grid. I cover each seed with a shovel of compost, a sprinkle of worm castings and a thick layer of sugar cane mulch. Wait for it to grow out, then cover with a sprinkle of compost and a layer of sugarcane mulch leaving two sets of leaves out top. Repeat three times. Harvest is simple with a hand through loose mulch. I've had mixed success with tuber layers above the soil base, so I kept at it.

Above Ground

I have had success in my regular garden beds, but I have been experimenting with alternative no dig harvesting methods. I started stacking old draws. Planting 3 Potatoes and filling each draw with mulch. As they grew, I added more draws and mulch. Unfortunately, I didn't get much production past the top of the 2nd or 3rd draw, no matter the variation.

On the hunt for more stable resources, I have now put decking offcuts to good use.

Building a simple box frame of 90cm x 40cm x 50cm high. The decking is left with gaps between for aeration, and the plant will grow out these gaps making more solar panels (leaves) and more potatoes.

The best part is harvesting time. Rather than digging over the garden and damaging some of the tubers, this system allows me to lift off the frame or knock it over. The potatoes are left floating in the mulch for easy collection. Each year I alternate between these techniques, dependant on space, time and materials. How do you grow your own Potatoes?

This week

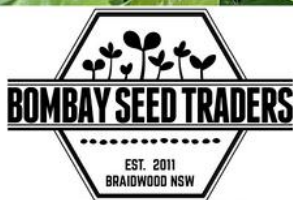

I dropped tools this week to follow the sound of the Striated Pardalote. His song is unmistakable. He visits the same tree every year and starts his relentless breeding calls. To my surprise he had a lady friend to dance for this year. It was special, and then they showed me why they love that big old Brittle Gum. It has many potential nest sites, little holes created by decaying branches long since broken by the wind.

All the Manchurian Pears in the garden have added their blossoms to the subtle arrival of Spring. No wind yet, maybe, maybe it'll come. Last year the August winds came early and lasted for months. This is why we need to plant early, mid and late season fruit trees. Because just maybe you'll get fruit this year, because the blossoms may stay on the tree long enough to get pollinated and set fruit. In our Unpredictable Highland Climate, we need to give it a go and plan for the possibilities to get the best success in every season.

Stay Awesome

An alternative to ED in Goulburn

Goulburn and surrounding communities are now able to access non-emergency healthcare in a more timely way, and avoid unnecessary trips to the emergency department, with the opening of a new Urgent Care Service opening today.

The Goulburn Urgent Care Service is now open 365 days a year, from 8am to 8pm Monday to Friday and 10am to 7pm Saturday and Sunday. It will be staffed by General Practitioners and nurses with important diagnostic services close by including radiology and pathology.

The service is well-supported to treat a range of illnesses and injuries that are urgent, but not life-threatening. This includes minor wounds needing stitches, suspected broken bones and skin infections.

Patients should call Healthdirect on 1800 022 222 to access the service. A registered nurse will assess the patient's condition and then discuss with the patient the best place for their care needs. This may include an appointment at the Goulburn Urgent Care Service, a telehealth appointment with the virtualKIDS or virtualGP services or escalating their care to other services like NSW Ambulance if required.

The Goulburn Urgent Care Service is being delivered in partnership with the Co-ordinator - South Eastern NSW Primary Health Network.

The Minns Labor Government is working to improve access to care and reduce wait times, through our emergency department relief package which will invest an additional $100 million to fund urgent care services for a further two years, providing a pathway to care outside of our hospitals for an estimated 114,000 patients once fully implemented.

Minister for Regional Health, Ryan Park said "Goulburn Urgent Care Service will provide the community with access to timely care for conditions which can be safely and effectively treated outside of the ED."

"Urgent care services just like this one, bridge the gap between primary care and emergency care, ensuring that patients have fast access to the care they need."

"The best way to get access to our urgent care services if you're feeling unwell or worried about symptoms is to call healthdirect anytime on 1800 022 222. A registered nurse will assess your condition and connect you with the care you need, whether an appointment at Goulburn urgent care service or virtual care. It means healthcare, anywhere, in the time it takes to make a phone call."

Nourishing love

When we moved house 7 weeks ago we were met with the gift of food. An exotic pumpkin soup and a Spanish chicken casserole. Moving house can be stressful, certainly emotional but the gift of food turned that all around. We'd known the love of the people of Braidwood over the seven years that we'd been putting our relocated Victorian cottage back together, but this gift had special meaning for us. The food was very good and as good food does, it nourished our bodies, but this food nourished our souls.

On Sundays we're still in John's gospel reading about Jesus feeding us, and we're now discovering that the bread he provided for those 5000 hungry people who were fed up in the mountains is for hungry people everywhere. But the talk is getting a bit difficult. 'I Am the Bread of Life' has moved to stuff about eating flesh and drinking blood, invoking images of violence and humiliation. Coming crucifixion? Probably. And people are challenging Jesus because of his outrageous claims and trying to tear him down, reckoning that they know all about him because they know his mum and dad. And now they're starting to argue amongst themselves.

As I think about all this, I come back to our experience 7 weeks ago of been given food as an act of love to welcome us and nourish us, and I think that at the core of it all that's probably what Jesus' gift of bread is all about.

On the road

While travelling through country towns, I have been delighted to experience the friendship of the people and the beauty of the countryside. I have seen flowing rivers and high mountains, wide open spaces some with spacious areas of agriculture, some just covered in the sparsely growing clumps of mulga and saltbush, spinifex and corkwoods. Our country is so very diversified, one can be travelling through mountainous rainforests west of the coast and the next day going through the mulga scrubs. From agricultural areas to wild bush. "What a wonderful world." And within this "WW" are the country towns where we shop at the IGA's, butchers, bakers and seek out the Op shops for second handbooks and that other thing, whatever it may be, that we see and can't live without! We talk to everyone, and everyone talks to us. A nod, a smile, a "G'day" and we're off on an adventure of this friendly stranger's life. It is amazing how easy it is to strike up a conversation. Just smile, nod and listen. It seems so very different from the hustle, bustle and busyness of the big cities! It is obvious to understand why we originally decided to retire in Braidwood. For us, this town has the essence of the typical friendly country town. All the elements of friendship and love are in the aura around and over it. Yes, we have our problems, and a few of the unhappy types, but how very blessed is our town where the majority are welcoming and friendly. I have not died and gone to Heaven, but living in as near to Heaven as I can find. It is this belief that makes me happy. Maybe this is a mind-set that we might all try to acquire. The message of 'love your neighbour' that Jesus encouraged for all of us to follow. God is present when we say "Howdee" or "G'day" to a friend and especially to a stranger. It all begins with a smile!

St Bede's Parish

The feast of St. Mary of the Cross (1842-1909) is celebrated on the 8th of August each year. August is real feast day month, including the Feast of the Assumption.

Mary MacKillop was born in Melbourne and worked as a governess and a teacher to support her family. The father was somewhat dysfunctional, certainly financially incompetent, and so Mary became the backbone of the family, in more ways than one. In 1866 she founded St Joseph's School, the first free Catholic school in Australia. At the time, there was some government funding for private schools, but Mary decided against that path, arguing that government funding would eventually lead to a breakdown of Catholic values and the taking on of secular values. Her schools were funded by fees and generous donors. They aimed to educate poor children in rural Australia. With Father Julian Tenison Woods she founded an order of nuns, the Sisters of St Joseph of the Sacred Heart. They opened many schools (one of which schools was at Araluen) and other charitable institutions. She was canonized by Pope Benedict XVI on 17 October 2010: the first Australian saint, the second in Oceania (St. Peter Chanel being the first). It was said of her that she never had to forgive people because she rarely, if at all, took offence. If only we could say that! May she intercede before the Lord for us and our families at this time of great change, Find happiness in making others happy – St. Mary MacKillop Father Tony

Bombay (ATHRA) Trail Horse Riding Club News

A few of our riders loaded up early and headed out for the club ride early on Sunday 28 July through snow flurries that fell on the Braidwood area that morning which left the local hills with a blanket of white. 9 ladies, led by our member and local Melissa headed out for a steep and sometimes technical ride in the Currawon Forest off the Western Distributor Rd, south of Braidwood. Melissa and Bindi, using hand tools including a small chainsaw had spent a few days prior walking and clearing to open the areas of overgrown track for us. Most of us have seen just how much the bush has grown back following the 2019 / 20 bush fires.

Thank you to both Melissa and Bindi, your efforts were very much appreciated. However, "It was also good that we took some tools along on the ride" said Wanda who on her 17.1 hh horse, Rory, found navigating some branches a bit difficult. At one point a few ladies had to dismount and work on rearranging a small dead tree so all the horses could get through with ease.

The riders were all very happy to be warmed by the sun sneaking through the canopy above as we stopped to enjoy our morning tea on the riverbed with the sound of the flowing water and the local birdlife all in tune. Very serene.

Back in the saddle, riders headed up the hill and then down again on another track, before riding back up another hillside catching glimpses of the Clyde Mountain and the local hills as they rode.

It wasn't as long as many of our previous rides, at only 12 kms, however it was a ride that certainly took the "puff" out of some of the fitter horses.

Lunch was thoroughly enjoyed around a warming fire set by Michael on the riverbank back at Melissa and Michael's property.

As an ATHRA club the members remain keen to discover more of their local area and grow in membership, as we enjoy many activities together and continue to value new friendships formed while riding together.

Our next ride will be Saturday 31st August in the very peaceful and pretty Monga National Park.

If you are interested in joining THE BOMBAY TRAIL RIDERS please email- bombayriders1@gmail.com or phone our President Jillian 0448001278 to discuss MEMBERSHIP TO THE BOMBAY RIDERS TRAIL RIDERS. We generally ride on the last Sunday of each month.

From the saddle,
Vicki Walcott, Publicity Officer.

NFF urges against complacency following 3G shutdown extension

The National Farmers' Federation has welcomed news today the 3G network closure will be extended, with Telstra and Optus launching a public safety awareness campaign to make sure people take action. NFF President David Jochinke said while people now had until October 28 to prepare, it was important they didn't leave it to the last minute. "This is not the time to take a 'she'll be right' attitude. I urge people to check their devices urgently and make sure they are compatible with the 4G and 5G networks," Mr Jochinke said.

Beyond mobile phones, the NFF urged rural Australians to think about what other technologies might be using the 3G network. This includes ag tech such as livestock and dog trackers, weather stations, soil moisture probes, yield monitors and variable rate technology. There's also security cameras, EFTPOS machines, medical monitors, 3G landlines (NGWL), repeaters, antennas and electronic road signs.

"If you don't know whether your device runs on the 3G network, you must contact the manufacturer to find out. Make sure this is on the top of your priority list.

Mr Jochinke added this was the second extension by Telstra and it was time for action. "We can't keep prolonging the inevitable. Let's use this time wisely and then start focusing on how we move forward and address the systemic issues facing rural connectivity."

Gillamatong Rise

$POA

A once in a lifetime opportunity to secure one of the best building sites in the Braidwood region.

Your choice of two blocks either 3.3 hectares or 2.1 hectares on a gentle rise overlooking the township. Protected from the west by Mount Gillamatong and both with views to the coastal escarpment, both have a dam and of course building entitlement.

With a location such as this it's not possible to over capitalise, the bigger the better. The only choice to make is which one.

'The Price of Liberty is Eternal Vigilance'

On 18 August, we commemorate Vietnam Veterans' Day on the anniversary of the Battle of Long Tan in 1966. We remember the sacrifices of those who died and say thank you to almost 60,000 Australians who served during the 10 years of our involvement in the Vietnam War.

The Vietnam War was Australia's longest military engagement of the 20th Century.

The arrival of the Australian Army Training Team Vietnam in South Vietnam during July and August 1962 marked the start of Australia's involvement in the war.

By the time the war had come to an end, almost 60,000 Australians served during a decade of conflict between 1962 and 1972. Tragically, 523 of them died and 3000 were wounded. The Battle of Long Tan was a significant moment in Australia's war in Vietnam.

On 18 August 1966, in a rubber plantation near the village of Long Tan, Australian soldiers fought one of their fiercest battles of the war.

The men of Delta Company, 6th Battalion Royal Australian Regiment, faced a force of some 2000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops. The battle was fought in wet and muddy conditions during a heavy tropical downpour.

By the end of the day, 17 Australians had been killed in action and 25 were wounded, one of whom died a few days later. This was the largest number of casualties in a single operation since the Australian Task Force had established its base at nearby Nui Dat the previous April.

On this day, we commemorate all the battles fought by Australians in Vietnam, from large-scale operations to platoon and section-level encounters. We remember the sailors of the Royal Australian Navy who supported land operations, and members of the Royal Australian Air Force who served in combat and transport roles.

A commemorative service is to be conducted at the Memorial Precinct, Ryrie Park Braidwood at 11:00 AM Sunday 18th Aug 2024

Bowling Club News

Braidwood Bowling Club reports:

Sunday's Spring like weather welcomed 18 bowlers on the green - 12 playing social and a game of Triples in Championships.

Barry Backhouse teamed up with Di Freeman to win against Kerri Backhouse and Leigh Curtis 19-17.

Glenis Bacon and Frank Egan had a tight victory of 13-12 against David Cargill and Suzanne Curtis.

The match of the day though required an extra end with scores being locked up at 17 all at the end.

Ross McKerchar and Greame Spencer won the extra end to defeat Joel Nettlebeck and Andrew Moran 20-17.

In their Triples title defence Cara Patton, Sanders Watson and Tom Watson outlasted an early onslaught from Barry Broadbent, Margaret Wisbey and Stan Wisbey.

Being down 6-8 at the end of the 8th end, Team Watson managed to compile scores of 5 on the 9th, 6 on the 13th and 16th, and few other scores in between, only dropping two singles until the completion to run away and win 31-10.
